NUMBER 33

Bank of Montreal Final Crop Report

GENERAL

The year's wheat crop in the Prairie Provinces was again light with yields of other cereals also in low figures. The estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics places wheat production of the Prairie Provinces at 265,000,000 bushels or about the same as last year, which compares with an average of 384,000,000 bushels over the past ten years. Coarse grains on the Prairies were a light crop with an estimate of 196,000,000 bushels for oats, and 49 to 50,000,000 bushels for barley slightly better than last year. In Quebec Province the yield of hay was slightly below average with that of cereals and root crop while the apple crop was far below average. In Ontario the yield of fall wheat was poor but that of spring grains was some what better than average. Hay was 50% of average with fodder corn and roots a good crop but apples and peaches much below average. In the Maritime Provinces the hay crop was considerably below average and the yield of cereals restricted by dry weather, the apple crop was light except for late yields in Nova Scotia, which will be better than average. Potatoes were a large crop in New Brunswick, with fair yields in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. In British Columbia crops generally were of good yield and quality and matured several weeks earlier than usual. Details follow:

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Seeding commenced in good time and while initial moisture conditions were fair, subsoil reserves were lacking over large areas in southern Saskatchewan and southwestern Manitoba. Spring precipitation was generally scant and great damage resulted from drought throughout May. Conditions were alleviated by June rains but drought and heat prevailed during July and the balance of the growing season. Conditions were more favorable in Alberta and northern Saskatchewan and northern Manitoba, but over most of the southern areas crops deteriorated throughout the season, resulting in light yields over large territories. There was a virtual crop failure of wheat and coarse grains in southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan, with only poor to fair crops in southwestern and west-central Saskatchewan. Due to energetic Government measures grasshopper ravages were less extensive than last year and the damage limited principally to coarse grains. Hail damage was serious over limited areas in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Generally speaking, crop were satisfactory in the northern areas of the three Provinces, and particularly good in the Red River Valley and Portage Plains in Manitoba and in the Peace River district of Alberta. Early threshed grain graded high, but there will be much low grade wheat in the northern areas of Saskatchewan & Alberta where grain has been damaged by frost and rain. Average wheat yields by Provinces estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are as follows:—Manitoba 13.7 bushels; Saskatchewan 8.6; Alberta 15.1. The Alberta sugar beet yield is estimated at 150,000 tons, compared with 140,000 tons last year.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Production of maple syrup and sugar last spring was less than normal in quantity though of excellent quality. Due to lack of moisture the hay crop was slightly below average especially in some sections of the eastern townships. Cereals though short in straw yielded well, fodder corn made late growth, the yield to the acre being well up to the average with quality fair to good. Potatoes and other root crops are generally satisfactory. The apple crop was far below average. Small fruits were generally plentiful. Pastures on the whole were on a fair throughout the entire season. The tobacco crop is reported as of good quality, the yield is slightly under average.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Although an abnormally severe winter extracted heavy toll in fall wheat and meadows, a midsummer drought severely affected growing crops, favorable weather beginning in the early autumn mitigated the conditions to a great extent leaving the results for the season considerably ahead of early anticipations. A yield of spring grain of generally good quality was somewhat better than average; hay crops were light though later cuttings showing some improvement, but the total crop will not exceed 50% of the average. The yield of fodder corn from an increased acreage was better than average and will assist in offsetting the hay shortage. The Ontario Department of Agriculture in preliminary estimates shows that the yield of fall wheat at 7,000,000 bushels from 25% less acreage was down 50% compared with last year. Oats and barley from a slightly increased acreage show a combined yield of 94,979,300 bushels compared with 77,691,300 bushels for 1933. Root crop are an average yield with potatoes better than average. The apple crop is placed at 30% of last year's production. The yield of peaches and plums was approximately 50% of average and appears in the Niagara district yielded 75% of average. Blue grapes are somewhat in excess of last year's yield while reds and whites show a decreased tonnage, the production of all varieties being considerably below normal. An average yield of good quality barley tobacco was harvested. Flue tobacco from a 25% reduced acreage shows an estimated yield of 16,000,000 pounds of fair quality against a production of 22,500,000 lbs. last year.

MARITIME PROVINCES

In Prince Edward Island a good crop of hay was harvested in New Brunswick & Nova Scotia the crop although of good quality was considerably below average. Continued dry weather resulted in grains maturing on short straw, the lack of moisture also adversely affecting the yield more especially in Nova Scotia. Light apple crops are reported from both New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in Nova Scotia the yield of late fruit will be better than average, a large proportion being first quality. A bumper crop of potatoes has been harvested in New Brunswick with fair yield in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Prices are however unsatisfactory. Pastures show improvement due to recent showers but have been poor the greater part of the summer.

PROVINCE OF B. C.

The yield of grains was average. Both were harvested average, that of hay much above practically without damage. Root crops, with the exception of potatoes which in the Fraser Valley were attacked by blight were satisfactory. Loganberries were much below average, other small fruits generally were of good quality and yields were normal. The apple crop is estimated at 5,186,142 boxes compared with 4,707,386 boxes in 1933 and the quality generally is good. The yield of other trees

W. B. Nalder Passes Away

W. B. Nalder, passed away at his home at 5:20 p.m. Thursday October 25th, following an illness of two months or longer, following a stroke, from which he never recovered. He was a quiet unassuming man, who was highly esteemed by everyone, and loved very dearly by his family and friends. After a spell of sickness three years or so ago, he has been in ill health almost continually, and had to be careful in his life and activities. The family came to Raymond in 1908 or 09, and during all those years, he has taken his share of responsibility, with his family, in the upbuilding of the town and district. He served for several years as Secretary-Treasurer of the Town, and also served a number of terms on the School Board, where his good judgment and sound advice was always welcome and respected. He leaves to mourn his death his loving wife and six children as follows: Mrs. Emma Burn, Mrs. Valeria Allen, Miss Velm Nalder, and sons Clifton, R. and Uriel. Funeral services will probably be held at 2 p.m. Sunday with the First Ward Bishopric in charge.

Green Xmas Forecasted

(Vulcan Advocate)

As usual a large number of prognostications for a very severe winter have been forthcoming hence the representative of the Advocate made it his duty to interview one of the old Indians on the reserve. After quietly removing his pipe, and then studiously looking at the sky for several minutes, he informed us that this would not be a very severe winter. The rabbits had not even commenced to take on their winter apparel and were skipping happily around in their summer garments. Questioned as to the geese and ducks moving south, the old warrior gave the reason of lack of water in Southern Alberta, hence they would move farther south for water. There will naturally be some cold weather, but December would not prove a hard month and in all probability Xmas would be enjoying mild weather. Fire in the mountains had naturally driven the animals down to the foot hills, but it was no indication of a severe winter. Gophers were still running around, the squirrels had not made arrangements for big storage deposits of food, and nature generally showed a mild winter, not a severe one.

Let's be optimistic and hope the Indian is right. We are going to have lots of chinook according to this old sage, and after all, the outlook is not so bad as some of the weather prophets have predicted. Let's keep smiling.

Support the R.A.A.A. Membership Drive

As the first step in the winter activities of the R.A.A.A. the membership drive is now on, headed by L. MacPhee as Chairman and J. V. Heggie as Chief Extractor. Make up your mind now to support the Association by buying a Membership ticket. Contrary to the practices of most Athletic Associations, the membership fee is still only $1.00, so that if you never find time to take advantage of any of the gym classes and other things the ticket entitles you to, you are still only out one smacker and it has gone for a mighty good cause.

It is a common occurrence for the ticket salesman to be met with the saying, "What the hell has the Association ever done for me?" when a person is looking for an excuse to refuse buying a ticket. In view of the Provincial and Dominion Basketball crowns that have come to Raymond, it seems this is a very poor question. All over Western Canada as soon as Basketball is mentioned, the Jacks and their long string of victories both in Canada and in the Western States comes to mind immediately. Being always from Raymond, the town receives very splendid advertising, and a lot of it. How much have you paid as your share of this publicity. If you haven't paid yet, this year would be a good time to start.

The charge is also made that the administration of the Association is one-sided and that Basketball is the only thing that is pushed. Well, in Raymond we all like our Basketball don't we? We would rather see a right good close game of Basketball, than the best display of gymnastics ever put on. Last winter gym classes were fine and for awhile went good. Then we all got too busy to come out, and the attendance dropped off. A town basketball league was formed and plenty promise to start, but it narrowed down to one team borrowing players from the others to make a game, and the workouts were not what was intended. A few kept badminton going pretty well throughout the winter, but not nearly as much as could have been done if we had not all been too busy or disinterested to get into the thing.

When you accuse the Association of one-sidedness just think these things over and also remember how the Skating Rink went begging for lack of support while the Association operated it.

When it comes to Basketball, we all like to be there. Generally we are all there. We enjoy the game, it is good for participants and onlookers, and we can always fill the house. We have good teams that always bring home the honors or make the other fellows go like everything to beat them, and we get a lot of good advertising from it, and it brings business to the town.

Get ready with your dollar and help the cause along. 200 members is the objective of the Committee, and it should be 300 from a town the size of Raymond. "Mac" will be calling on you, and it will be better for Mac and easier for you to say "Fill it out." Then he'll let you alone.

B. Y. U. NEWS

Sixteen students from Canada are attending Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah according to the latest report of John D. Hayes, Registrar. Of this number, Cardston is represented with six, Raymond with six, and Glenwood, Magrath, Beaver and Mountain View with one each.

The university has aided students who are housekeeping by giving them gifts of apples which were grown in the university's orchard near the school campus. Other similar surprises are being planned, according to Dr. F. S. Harris, president of the University.

Dr. Harris states "Frugality is in style at Brigham Young University and any suggestion of extravagance on the part of students will be dealt with by the university as contrary to the spirit of the school." Twenty states and two foreign countries are represented at the Provo school.

Snow which started falling Thursday night and continued all day Friday will put a stop to the beet harvest for a little while, just when the end of the grind was in sight, with the possibility of having all but an odd field here and there cleaned up and into the silo. One week of good weather followed the last storm, and every hour of daylight was utilized in getting the beets into the silos and away from the danger of frost. There are few growers, however, who have very large acreages left, most of them getting them cut down to near the finish line.

The season has been a threatening one for the past five or six weeks, in fact ever since digging started, but, to date no damaging frost has been reported, and it begins to look as though the entire tonnage may be harvested without any damage from frost. There were some long faces after the first big storm just as digging started, and a lot of the Solomons who knew that the crop would never be harvested but the greater portion of it is already safe from the danger of a frost king, and prospects are good for the rest of the average to be obtained too. Despite the snow many growers were in the fields all day pulling and topping what had already been dug.

The Factory is having a good run slicing around 1,400 tons daily, and very few stops. The sugar content is not quite as high this year as it has been for the past two or three, because of the excess moisture during the ripening season, but the increased tonnage will help to offset this, and all in all if we can just get the rest of the crop out of the ground without frost damage, it will be one of the best sugar beet years South of the border has ever had.

The snowflakes are increasing in size as this is being written, and it looks as though the skies may clear during the afternoon, and good weather be the mean for another spell. We hope so at least.

More and more the need is seen for gravel on the stretch between here and Cradock. Why can't we get this undertaken.

Several local people were at the Community Conference held in Lethbridge on Friday and Saturday of last week. An enjoyable and profitable time is reported.

ENGLAND TO AUSTRALIA RACE WON BY BRITISH TEAM

The big air derby is over, having been won by Captain C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black who put their plane down in Darwin, a little over 2,000 miles from Melbourne, the end of the flight, in the record time of 52 1/4 hours, cutting 4 days and 15 hours from the previous record. The Dutch team formentor and Moll were in second place.

The flying Mollisons who lead the way on the first leg of the journey were forced out of the race because of engine trouble and never got farther than Allahabad.

Two British fliers, Gilman and Baines, were burned to death when their plane took fire and crashed after taking off for Rome in Italy. They had been dogged with bad luck ever since they left London. Despite the efforts of police & peasants the fliers could not be rescued from the burning ship and only after the fire burned out could they be removed.

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter: "Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation."—Mr. L. M. Durigan (address furnished upon request).

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green packages. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

News Notes

A light rain Sunday made the drying roads slippery again, but did not halt the beet harvest which continued on without interruption. The end of this week will see the harvest drawing to a close and most of the beets out of the ground.

"Uncle Ad" Heggie was guest of honor at a delightful birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Green at their home last Saturday, October 20th, when about 12 or 14 guests gathered to honor Mr. Heggie on his 68 birthday. Congratulations were extended to the guest of honor and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent by the crowd.

After obtaining $500 in a bank holdup, two bandits took the town fire truck of Tiltenville in which to make their escape. Pretty nifty we say, to steal the money and then haul it away in the fire truck.

The Macleod Gazette put out a Special Diamond Jubilee edition of fourteen pages last week in honor of the 60th anniversary of the town's founding when it was known for years as old Fort Macleod.

Elders Earl Harker, Elmo Fletcher of Magrath were returned missionaries at the Raymond First Ward Sunday evening. Forest Packard who is visiting here from Idaho was also a speaker, and a special number by the Choir rounded out a very enjoyable program. The hall was packed, one of the largest crowds of the year being present.

9. TIPS FOR BEGINNERS

SKEET requires no previous experience with a shotgun. It is not easy, but neither is golf, or any other worthwhile sport, and therein lies the beauty of it. Every successful Skeet club will of course have its committees to look after points of organization, grounds, finance, etc., and it should choose two or three really experienced shots who will form an instruction committee to look after the newcomer and the novice. If you have never had a gun in your hands, these shooters will be glad to put you up to the fundamentals of the game; remember, a little personal coaching plus willingness to learn and to observe, and self-confidence, is all the newcomer needs. And, of course, practice.

If you have fired a few shells before, there are in all probability some kinks to be taken out of your stance and arm-work.

Be sure that the gun you use fits you. Don't rush to buy one right at the start. Ask the Secretary of your Skeet club to let you try one or two from the gun-rack before you decide which one you will purchase. Guns fit, as well as clothes. Obviously, the aim suitable for a six-foot, twohundred pound man will not be the right one for a teen-age girl. You will soon find the correct gun for your particular size and characteristics.

Leave your nerves and self-consciousness behind you when you walk out to Station 1. Take things easy. Stand naturally, don't grip too hard. Don't shoot too much—just a few shells at first. It is of more value to keep your eye on some of the old-timers. Watch how they handle themselves.

After you have got the gun that fits, practice with it as much as possible, unloaded, of course, swinging and pointing at different objects. An excellent idea is to practice stance before a mirror, if you can remember how those experts looked that you were watching earlier in the day. Do not fire the gun when it is empty; you will damage the firing pin. Load it with an empty shell, use it fifteen times or so, and then replace it with another empty.

You will be surprised how quickly you catch on. Above all, be patient and try to make steady progress, rather than scores that are sometimes spectacular and mainly erratic.

This is No. 9 of a series of 12 articles on Skeet Shooting. Cut it out. When all have been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportman's sport which is rapidly becoming the vogue across Canada.

HOBBLEDEHOY

"Hobbledehoy" is an old word that is used to describe the awkward youth who is neither man nor boy. It is for the hobbledehoys that we would ask some consideration because for them, their awkwardness is not at all amusing; it is a trying state of self-consciousness.

The child does not grow slowly and steadily into his adult size. There are periods when growth is particularly rapid. The first year of life sees the average child increase his weight threefold. At no other period of life is there such a tremendous rate of increase in weight. During adolescence, there is another spurt leading to a remarkable increase in both height and weight.

This period of rapid growth during adolescence occurs earlier in girls than in boys, the girl attaining her full growth at an earlier age than the boy. It is because of this rapid growth and an increase in strength which is proportionally greater than the increase in size that the adolescent frequently becomes clumsy and awkward. Hands and feet seem, for a time, to be out of proportion and difficult to control.

Furthermore, it is at this age that pimples and blackheads most commonly appear to add to the discomfort of the adolescent, who is, perhaps for the first time, conscious of personal appearance and who is thus rendered unhappy by a combination of awkwardness and a bad complexion.

Throughout life, the child requires from his parents a sympathetic understanding of his

WEEKLY LETTER

FALL WORK IN THE GARDEN

The gardener here at the station is at present very busy getting his fall work finished before winter sets in. The past season's crop has been harvested and stored and the gardening activities here now are devoted largely to preparing for next year and providing winter protection for such plants as raspberry bushes, strawberry and perennial flowers. Garden work at the Lethbridge station has comprised both irrigation and dry land and while the two types of gardening are similar in many respects there are differences, particularly in the preparation of the soil, that need to be observed.

The irrigated plots used here for garden work are all being manured heavily and ploughed before freeze-up, since a liberal application of well rotted manure ploughed under each fall is considered of the most importance in preparing an irrigated garden soil. Irrigated garden soils need to be fall ploughed because artificial watering tends to produce a certain degree of lumpiness than can only be satisfactorily overcome, it seems by fall ploughing and exposing the lumps to the action of winter freezing and thawing. A good harrowing in the fall after the land is ploughed is another important essential in preparing an irrigated garden soil. The ploughing under of well rotted manure every fall helps to make an irrigated soil highly productive and easy to handle.

In preparing the dry land garden at this station the practice has been to summer-fallow one-half of the garden plot each year when a moderate dressing of well rotted manure is ploughed under. This practice has proved a good insurance against drought and is much safer than cropping all of the garden plot every year where moisture is the limiting factor. Summer-fallowing for garden crops is just as worthwhile as summer-fallowing for wheat. In fact it is more so since many vegetables are less drought resistant than wheat and a good garden can contribute so much to our living and well being. Where no summer-fallow is available and fall or spring ploughing must be resorted to, in the drier areas outside of the irrigated districts the application of manure is not advised. Usually the moisture supply is inadequate for the manure to be used by the plants and the presence of undecayed straw material has the effect of retarding plant growth. The safest plan in areas of limited rain fall where irrigation is not available is to turn under a dressing of manure only when the land is being summer-fallowed in June. In areas of more favoured rain fall, and especially with the precipitation the last few weeks, well rotted manure should prove helpful if ploughed under this fall. This applies particularly to the foothill area.

Raspberry bushes, it has been found, will usually winter kill at this station unless protected against extremes of alternate freezing and thawing and the drying effects of our Chinook winds. Effective protection is provided by covering the canes with 3 to 4 inches of moist soil after all the old canes are removed and the new, that is the current season's canes are bent down to the ground lengthwise with the rows. Moist soil makes a good covering because it keeps the canes moist. Neither straw nor manure have been found effective. The soil for covering is taken from between the rows.

The strawberry plantation is protected by covering late in the fall with 3 to 4 inches of old straw that is free from weed seeds. Strawberry plants are not apt to winter kill as raspberries and while plants often come through without protection it is better not to take the risk. The rhubarb and asparagus beds are given a generous covering of well rotted manure. This gives winter protection and in the spring the shorter material is spaded in around the plants to provide added fertility. Similar treatment is given to all of the perennial flower borders and fall planted bulbs.
